Alayna left the small town of Butler, Pennsylvania in the summer of 2011 with nothing but herself and a carload of a few necessities, including her Breedlove guitar, to pursue her lifelong dream of being a recording artist & songwriter of note.

In just a few years' time she would be writing with hit songwriters such as Steve Dean ("Watching You" for Rodney Atkins), Jeffrey East, and Kirsti Manna ("Austin" for Blake Shelton), playing well-known venues like Bluebird Cafe & Nissan Stadium. In 2012 Alayna received an endorsement from her favorite guitar company, Breedlove. Alayna's fan-funded EP titled "The Wrong Side" was released in May 2015, & charted at #30 on the iTunes UK Country charts.

Alayna wrote her first song at age 12. Here are a few of her career highlights to date:
